

Site Works

Apollo Energy has specialist expertise in site works for electricity, gas, water and telecoms utilities.

We work with clients from a wide variety of sectors including retail, manufacturing, housing, leisure and residential developments.

Our projects come from a variety of sources including developers, landlords, letting agents, consultants and the end service user.

With in-depth knowledge of this complex process we can oversee any size of project from single supply to multiple services, liaising with distribution networks, suppliers and meter operators. We work closely with client project managers to ensure they are kept fully up to date and projects are delivered on time.

Once the site works have been completed, Apollo Energy can source the most cost-effective supply contracts to deliver the best value for your needs.

Savills - Associate Director:

"I can confirm that we have worked on a great number of projects over the years where Apollo Energy has provided expert advice always working to our very tight timescales. We use Apollo for all new supplies, unit splits, merging properties and installing meters if tenants request this. Apollo have always gone the extra mile to ensure that prompt service is provided and use their expertise to ensure the correct forms are issued to the relevant people and track them throughout the process. I have previously recommended Apollo to other consultants and contractors and I know they have used them and are impressed and continue to use them."
